*The pursuit and the choice of the “With PLC” life is filled with great hope and promise. And yet, it is a pursuit that is not always easy. Whether you are a teacher, administrator, staff, parent or board member, the “With PLC” life is one that must be lived and practiced now, but can only best be understood for its impact, in reflection later. This inspirational message will challenge each attendee to consider three PLC legacy-building practices: Responding positively to failure, preventing deep regret, and building a path of trust and enduring inspiration. Based on his book, The Five Disciplines of PLC Leaders, Timothy D. Kanold provides deep insight into how to build your day-to-day, month-by-month, and year-by-year highly energized and fully engaged in the FLOW “with PLC” life, one brick at a time. How you decide what you will give those you have taught, learned from, collaborated with and influenced over the years, to remember you by is up to you – come and find out how to make it great!*
